University Launches New Center for American Indian and Indigenous Studies

Submitted by Kai Wise on October 25, 2018 - 4:28pm

We've got some great news and it's getting people excited all across campus! The UW has just approved the creation of a new Center for American Indian and Indigenous Studies. Led by Jean Dennison, associate professor of both American Indian Studies and anthropology, and Chadwick Allen, adjunct professor in American Indian Studies, professor in English, and associate vice provost for faculty advancement, the center aims to support research in American Indian and Indigenous Studies across the three UW campuses, as well as with surrounding Native communities. UW News highlighted the new Center in a great article this week. Read the full article here.

People Involved: Jean Dennison, Chadwick Allen

News Category: Announcements, Community Impact, In the Press, Research

Related Fields: American Indian/Native American, Collaboration, First Nations

Department of American Indian Studies
University of Washington
Padelford Hall C-514
Box 354305
Seattle, WA 98195

Phone: (206) 543-9082
Fax: (206) 616-3122
native@uw.edu